

receive just recognition. It is proposed to combine enough Republican members from North Carolina, Tennessee, Louisiana and Missouri—eleven in all—to constitute a balance of power, who are to say to their Northern colleagues, "Give us the Clerk, Doorkeeper and Sergeant-at-Arms of the House, whose salaries with those of subordinates amount to a half million dollars, or we will vote for and elect a Democratic Speaker taking what we can get in return." Tom Keogh, an old carpet-bagger and lifelong office-holder of North Carolina, is said to be at the head of this threatened revolt, and who aspires to the clerkship of the House; his first lieutenant is the notorious

At the foot of the hill is a pretty branch running through the very center of a tea-acre persimmon grove enclosed within a high board fence. The per-

The plan may not materialize, but the threat is in the air and many Republican leaders are uneasy about it.

Another Whitechapel Horror.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Whitechapel has been visited again by Jack the Ripper. The twelfth and most horrible of all the murders committed by this fiend incarnate has just been discovered in this district.

A workman passing through Backchurch lane, in the extreme south end of Whitechapel, came upon the body of a woman murdered and mutilated in a most horrible turns around, and swings his body into space. His legs and feet are drawn into his body and his head drawn up between his shoulders until it forms an angle with the rest of his body. He is then in a position to strike with more force than any that went before him. We regret this, for we were for Harrison, he was our choice over the field, but his endeavor to continue Southern Republicanism as a delegate-making machine, and to exclude the

The mutilation was more aggravated than in any former case, but it was of a character which stamped the outrage as one of the acies which have been attributed to "Jack the Ripper," because, despite the utmost efforts of the police, no better name could be given to the perpetrator. As in the other cases in which the assassin was not disturbed at his work, the cruel knife had been thrust into the body of the victim at the waist and then ripped along the median line downwards till the abdomen was laid open and the organs of the creature completely disemboweled.

med into her pocket and were hid from
w. She then climbed down the tree.
While this was going on, more than 7000
ers had awakened and were coming down

The editor of The Rural New Yorker thinks it a matter of surprise that so little is said, so little known of the beauty of the double white flowering horse chestnut. As an ornamental tree it ought invariably to take the place of the old single white (Fagus hippocastanum.) because it is more pyramidal in form; because the racemes of flowers are larger, and last, though really first in importance, as the tree bears no fruit, it is free of the serious objection to the common variety that the leaves, during the late season, is littered with the nuts and their shells. The flowers of the common white have but five petals; those of the double white have upwards of thirty. Each petal

"I am convinced that on no one subject is there so much misrepresentation and such prevalent prejudice. We Pennsylvania farmers are resolute in refusing to other

AFTER a few more weeks of experimenting with essence of lamb, pig and dog, people will settle back into the conclusion that if they behave themselves they will live as long as they are entitled to.

A GENUINE Stradivarius violin 108 years old is in possession of Thomas Williams, colored, of Chestertown, Md. Its value is $3,000.

MRS. JULIA D. GRANT, General Grant's widow, who is now in Vienna with her son Fred, expects soon to return and pass the winter in Washington.

A PULMAN Palace car can be bought for the key is certainly disgracing himself by taking; but he never had parents who cared for him, or cared for his habits, he should not be blamed. Now, if the generation has seen—on the whole, below cost of production. From the foreign market, which invites us and which would afford an immense relief, we are barred by a Doctoror (politely, but looking at his watch with visible impatience).—"Pardon me, madam, but my time is not my own. I can have given me all your symptoms in sufficient detail, and now perhaps you will kindly—er—ah—" Husband (not so considerate).—"Maria, he doesn't want to hear your tongue any more. He wants to look at it."

and shapes required, no portion is left to the atmosphere. It is asserted houses constructed in this manner

PURELY
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
ALCOHOL
VINEGAR BITTERS

THE ONLY NON-ALCOHOLIC VEGETABLE MEDICINE put up in liquid form ever discovered.

It is not a vile fancy drink made of rum, rums, whiskeys, or vinegars, liquors, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, but a pure, vegetable, nutritious-medic made from pure California

in 1364. In 1890 its population was 62,900, but it is now fallen to about 60. The state has never prospered, and people are seriously discussing schemes

[illegible]

t you call me earlier, mamma? Isn't most time for the pic-nic train to start?"
ting mother—"Why, Willie, the picnics ed to-morrow. This is Sunday day evening week. Professor P. H. Redmond, an aeronaut, was to make an ascension in a hot-air balloon. Just as the large airship sailed away skyward a lad aged 19

The only Temperance Bitters known, stimulates the Brain and quiets the Stomach, regulates the Bowels and renders the Circulation perfect. It purifies the human veins, which is sure to restore perfect health.

GEO. W. DAVIS, of 160 Harrison st., New Orleans, La., writes under date May 9th, 1888, as follows: "I have used your Bitters for some time, for fifteen years as for itching humors in my blood. I have just used three bottles of your Bitters, and feel perfectly cured. I can tell you that the springs, it is the best medicine in use."

JOSEPH J. ZDAN, of No. 75 West St., New York, writes, under date of May 10th, 1888, as follows: "I have used your Bitters for the past twelve years, and consider a whole medicine cabinet in our family."

MRS. MATTIE FURFURSON, of Dryden, N. Y., writes, under date of May 10th, 1888, as follows: "I have used your Bitters for the past twelve years; it saved my life."

T. F. BAILEY, of Humboldt, Iowa, says:

lows justice of the peace refused to man for kissing a girl against her

Send for a beautiful book, free.
Address R. H. McDONALD DRUG CO.,
332 Washington St., New York.

Democratic Ticket.
STATE TREASURER,
EDMUND A. HIGLER, of Clearfield Co.
ASSOCIATE JUDGES,
DAVID G. DONOHUE, of Straban Twp.
JOHN L. JENKINS, of Mount Pleasant Twp.
ASSISTANT,
EDWARD SHEPHERD, of East Berlin Twp.
PROSECUTOR,
EMANUEL M. ZIEGLER, of Gettysburg.
DIRECTOR OF THE ROAD,
JAMES B. MYERS, of Highland Township.
COUNTY SURVEYOR,
JOHN G. BRINCKHOFF, of Straban.

PENNA. DAY.

Throngs of Veterans and Visitors.

MONUMENTAL DEDICATIONS.

The Grand Parade Abandoned.

EXERCISES IN THE RINK.

Veteran Reunions.

CROWDED TOWN AND LIVELY TIMES.

To the 15,000 strangers here at the time of our last issue, more than thousands were added on Tuesday evening and Wednesday, information gathered from these officials and other sources justifying the estimate of 36,000 people here in connection with the celebration of Pennsylvania Days at Gettysburg. Of this number 10,000 were veterans of this battle and brought here on free transportation furnished by the State. While the hunt for quarters was lively on Monday night, it was not so on Tuesday night when the crowd reached its height. F. C. Brink, Esq., in charge of the bureau of information, Burgess Quinby, the Police and several members of the Town Council made every effort to house the throng, the Court-room, Rink, Post room and Mr. Livers' Post Office being thrown open to afford sleeping places, and all who applied were taken care of. There was scarcely a home in town that did not in some way contribute to the entertainment of the visitors, and many of them got quarters in farm houses within a mile of several miles around the place. About two hundred licensed vehicles of all descriptions, having from one to four horses, found constant employment in transporting the people to the camps and over the battlefield. There was not a time any scarcity of provisions, and the crowd patiently waited their turn at the hundreds of eating places. The supply of wet goods was also equal to the occasion, the milk product being in general favor. The people of our town are entitled to great credit for the self-denial so generally displayed in their efforts to make comfortably the tremendous influx of visitors and other than the hundreds of details furnished by Col. Coryell, of the 12th regiment, who quartered at the engine house and were on duty at the Burgess' office. The great crowd considered, our police kept in check all decided disorderly demonstrations, with particular attention being indulged as to the number of people, and quantities of goods consumed in certain lines and the amount of money spent here, the financial guesses ranging from one hundred thousand dollars to a quarter of a million, but it is extremely difficult to reach any correct conclusion, and most rest as a pure matter of guess work from the absence of any trustworthy basis upon which to calculate.

Besides the camp on East Cemetery hill, Governor Beaver had his headquarters in a handsome arrangement of tents in front of the Springs Hotel, and the 12th regiment, with 450 men, who arrived on Tuesday, were very comfortably and well armed camped on the high ground in rear of the Springs Hotel. Among the distinguished people here was the old war Governor, A. G. Curtin, also General Sickles and other and Major Richardson, of the New York Monument Commission. Wednesday was known as veterans' day and from morning to night, in spite of the rain, lines of men were moving from the various regimental headquarters, scattered all over the town in private houses, in the various hotels and public buildings, to the various monuments over the entire battlefield. On Reynolds avenue, near the Fairfield road, Capt. Jos. R. Rosecrans was on duty for the 12th Infantry. Next on the same avenue, came the 151st, followed by the 120th, where General W. W. H. Hoffman, Gen. Geo. E. M. Osborne was the historian at the 143d. Col. J. W. Hoffman, who gave the command for the 1st Infantry fire in the battle, was spokesman for his regiment, the 56th. Other monuments on Reynolds avenue were the 140th, 10th and 98th, Gen. Louis Wagner participating in the last named. Two were dedicated on Howard avenue, the 75th and 153d. On East Cemetery Hill were held the dedications of the 73d and Cooper's battery. On Camp Hill the 28th, 147th, Kanp's battery, 109th, 111th, 29th and 46th had interesting exercises. At the 105th, at the Camp of the 12th, Gen. John Lynch had a prominent part in the program. At the 60th, the same place, Colonel James O'Reilly and Capt. J. E. Reilly spoke. The 73d statue, the position of which was taken by process of law, dedicated their bronze statue, Capt. E. W. W. Carr, Esq., presenting the claims of the regiment. At Little Round-top the 1st included the 53d, which is surmounted by the statue of Gen. Strong Vincent, where his brother, Bishop John Vincent, of the 15th, and the 9th and 10th regiments, on Big Round-top the 12th, and the 90th at Devil's Den. In the Wheatfield Gen. Beaver was present and spoke at the 143th, his old regiment, Major Foster, of Harrisburg, delivering the oration. Col. Edmund Randall was on duty at the 110th, Col. Mulholland's regiment. At the same vicinity the 51st, 110th, 140th, 52d and 145th regiments held formal exercises. On the North brigade line, at Althoff's, Col. Colyer spoke for the 120th, and Rev. J. S. Lane for the 93d. The 98th and 102d are also on this line. Across from the Peach Orchard is the 98th and 4th regiments, and the 2nd and 3rd regiments, on the 114th and 57th, and the 140th, nearly opposite. Further toward town, at the extreme right of the 3d corps line, Collector Tins, J. Cooper spoke for the 20th, of the 1st division. Col. Theo. W. Beane spoke for the 17th, and Mr. Geo. S. Forney, J. W. Phillips, Esq., for the 18th on the Snyder place, and the 4th, near the Toneytown road, had an elaborate programme. During the exercises of the 2d cavalry, on Meade avenue, Rev. M. L. Gause, formerly of this place, offered prayer. The 16th, near Wolf Hill, had an interesting programme, as did Kanp's battery, on the Hanover road. Those who fixed an early hour had the advantage of the weather, the rain interfering in the afternoon and compelling many of the programmes to be completed in the morning. The evening was enlivened by a concert on the reviewing stand in the Diamond by the Metropolitan band, brought here by the 72d regiment, fireworks adding to the scene. Thursday morning gave some promise of better weather, and to the immense number of people here were added thousands more, coming on to excursion trains and by private vehicles. The muddy condition of the roads, along with the complaints of the length of the march, induced Gen. D. Mc Gregor, the Chief Marshal, to form the line at the western edge of town, instead of the Springs Hotel. The marching order was as follows: The 72d regiment, in full uniform and mounted sides hurried to and fro carrying orders for forming the column. Regimental organizations were collecting and though many declined to tramp through the mud, the column would still have been a fairly long one. But before it started the threatened rain began to fall, accompanied by a high wind, which convinced all that no parade could take place. The muddy roads of Wednesday became quickly impassable for pedestrians and it was decided to give the idea of marching the veterans in full review, and the orders were issued accordingly. Before this conclusion was reached, however, the exodus of people set in, and the rush for both railroad depots was simply immense. Each train out was loaded to its utmost but little impression on the vast throng clamoring to get away. The steady down-pour drove everybody indoors and every place which offered shelter was filled to its capacity. The event which for months had been looked to with glowing anticipation, the grand parade, being off, the one desire on all sides was to get away, and the formal exercises, which took place in the Rink in the afternoon, attracted a comparatively small audience. On the stage were Gov. Beaver, the State Monument Commission, the speakers of the occasion, Chief Marshal Gregg, and others, the Battlefield Memorial Association being represented by Directors Litchner, Hazard and Vandewater and Secretary Knautz. Gen. Sickles, who a little over three years ago delivered his famous defense in this building, under a similar state of weather, occupied a seat in the audience. When Gov. Beaver saw him he went down and invited him to a seat on the platform, the two one-legged veterans being applauded as they moved up the aisle on their crutches. After making the address, Chief Marshal Gregg, of Lebanon, Col. Nicholson called the assembly to order, in the announcement that Col. Geo. Meade, son of Gen. George G. Meade, who had been selected as the presiding officer, was seriously ill. The Arion Society, of Baltimore, finely recited the Star Spangled Banner, after which Col. Nicholson introduced Rev. Dr. John R. Patton, of New York, Jay Gould's pastor, who offered a fervent prayer. The Arion Society followed with "Praise the Lord," and Gen. J. P. S. Gelin on behalf of the Commission thanked the monuments to the Governor. He described the achievements of Pennsylvania troops at Gettysburg from the opening by the 56th regiment to the close in the repulse of Pickett. He said that not Gen. George Gordon Meade has a suitable monument on this field Pennsylvania will not have done her duty.

Most of the monuments, Governor Beaver traced the service of the white troops here and enlarged the work of the Commission, saying they had discharged their duty in a manner alike creditable to themselves and the Commonwealth. He referred to the constitutional difficulties which made necessary his visit to the battlefield, and the Reserves to meet their appropriations. The memorial statue, and promised so far as he was able officially or personally to co-operate with the regiments in carrying out their wishes. He alluded to the Vermont, New Jersey, and New York brigade monument and urged the Pennsylvania Reserve to go to perpetuate their part in the battle in a building which shall be distinctive and appropriate. A poem, "Gettysburg," by Isaac R. Penneycker, followed. The oration on "The First Day," by Capt. Joseph G. Rosecrans, was a clear and concise description of that battle, in which he said that the 12th regiment engaged and spoke in detail of the absence of the 1st division. He remarked that the "statue of Reynolds marks the place on which he fell, but our duty will not be done until monuments of Meade and Hancock are erected."

Most of the monuments, Governor Beaver traced the service of the white troops here and enlarged the work of the Commission, saying they had discharged their duty in a manner alike creditable to themselves and the Commonwealth. He referred to the constitutional difficulties which made necessary his visit to the battlefield, and the Reserves to meet their appropriations. The memorial statue, and promised so far as he was able officially or personally to co-operate with the regiments in carrying out their wishes. He alluded to the Vermont, New Jersey, and New York brigade monument and urged the Pennsylvania Reserve to go to perpetuate their part in the battle in a building which shall be distinctive and appropriate. A poem, "Gettysburg," by Isaac R. Penneycker, followed. The oration on "The First Day," by Capt. Joseph G. Rosecrans, was a clear and concise description of that battle, in which he said that the 12th regiment engaged and spoke in detail of the absence of the 1st division. He remarked that the "statue of Reynolds marks the place on which he fell, but our duty will not be done until monuments of Meade and Hancock are erected."

Most of the monuments, Governor Beaver traced the service of the white troops here and enlarged the work of the Commission, saying they had discharged their duty in a manner alike creditable to themselves and the Commonwealth. He referred to the constitutional difficulties which made necessary his visit to the battlefield, and the Reserves to meet their appropriations. The memorial statue, and promised so far as he was able officially or personally to co-operate with the regiments in carrying out their wishes. He alluded to the Vermont, New Jersey, and New York brigade monument and urged the Pennsylvania Reserve to go to perpetuate their part in the battle in a building which shall be distinctive and appropriate. A poem, "Gettysburg," by Isaac R. Penneycker, followed. The oration on "The First Day," by Capt. Joseph G. Rosecrans, was a clear and concise description of that battle, in which he said that the 12th regiment engaged and spoke in detail of the absence of the 1st division. He remarked that the "statue of Reynolds marks the place on which he fell, but our duty will not be done until monuments of Meade and Hancock are erected."

Most of the monuments, Governor Beaver traced the service of the white troops here and enlarged the work of the Commission, saying they had discharged their duty in a manner alike creditable to themselves and the Commonwealth. He referred to the constitutional difficulties which made necessary his visit to the battlefield, and the Reserves to meet their appropriations. The memorial statue, and promised so far as he was able officially or personally to co-operate with the regiments in carrying out their wishes. He alluded to the Vermont, New Jersey, and New York brigade monument and urged the Pennsylvania Reserve to go to perpetuate their part in the battle in a building which shall be distinctive and appropriate. A poem, "Gettysburg," by Isaac R. Penneycker, followed. The oration on "The First Day," by Capt. Joseph G. Rosecrans, was a clear and concise description of that battle, in which he said that the 12th regiment engaged and spoke in detail of the absence of the 1st division. He remarked that the "statue of Reynolds marks the place on which he fell, but our duty will not be done until monuments of Meade and Hancock are erected."

Most of the monuments, Governor Beaver traced the service of the white troops here and enlarged the work of the Commission, saying they had discharged their duty in a manner alike creditable to themselves and the Commonwealth. He referred to the constitutional difficulties which made necessary his visit to the battlefield, and the Reserves to meet their appropriations. The memorial statue, and promised so far as he was able officially or personally to co-operate with the regiments in carrying out their wishes. He alluded to the Vermont, New Jersey, and New York brigade monument and urged the Pennsylvania Reserve to go to perpetuate their part in the battle in a building which shall be distinctive and appropriate. A poem, "Gettysburg," by Isaac R. Penneycker, followed. The oration on "The First Day," by Capt. Joseph G. Rosecrans, was a clear and concise description of that battle, in which he said that the 12th regiment engaged and spoke in detail of the absence of the 1st division. He remarked that the "statue of Reynolds marks the place on which he fell, but our duty will not be done until monuments of Meade and Hancock are erected."

Most of the monuments, Governor Beaver traced the service of the white troops here and enlarged the work of the Commission, saying they had discharged their duty in a manner alike creditable to themselves and the Commonwealth. He referred to the constitutional difficulties which made necessary his visit to the battlefield, and the Reserves to meet their appropriations. The memorial statue, and promised so far as he was able officially or personally to co-operate with the regiments in carrying out their wishes. He alluded to the Vermont, New Jersey, and New York brigade monument and urged the Pennsylvania Reserve to go to perpetuate their part in the battle in a building which shall be distinctive and appropriate. A poem, "Gettysburg," by Isaac R. Penneycker, followed. The oration on "The First Day," by Capt. Joseph G. Rosecrans, was a clear and concise description of that battle, in which he said that the 12th regiment engaged and spoke in detail of the absence of the 1st division. He remarked that the "statue of Reynolds marks the place on which he fell, but our duty will not be done until monuments of Meade and Hancock are erected."

Most of the monuments, Governor Beaver traced the service of the white troops here and enlarged the work of the Commission, saying they had discharged their duty in a manner alike creditable to themselves and the Commonwealth. He referred to the constitutional difficulties which made necessary his visit to the battlefield, and the Reserves to meet their appropriations. The memorial statue, and promised so far as he was able officially or personally to co-operate with the regiments in carrying out their wishes. He alluded to the Vermont, New Jersey, and New York brigade monument and urged the Pennsylvania Reserve to go to perpetuate their part in the battle in a building which shall be distinctive and appropriate. A poem, "Gettysburg," by Isaac R. Penneycker, followed. The oration on "The First Day," by Capt. Joseph G. Rosecrans, was a clear and concise description of that battle, in which he said that the 12th regiment engaged and spoke in detail of the absence of the 1st division. He remarked that the "statue of Reynolds marks the place on which he fell, but our duty will not be done until monuments of Meade and Hancock are erected."

Most of the monuments, Governor Beaver traced the service of the white troops here and enlarged the work of the Commission, saying they had discharged their duty in a manner alike creditable to themselves and the Commonwealth. He referred to the constitutional difficulties which made necessary his visit to the battlefield, and the Reserves to meet their appropriations. The memorial statue, and promised so far as he was able officially or personally to co-operate with the regiments in carrying out their wishes. He alluded to the Vermont, New Jersey, and New York brigade monument and urged the Pennsylvania Reserve to go to perpetuate their part in the battle in a building which shall be distinctive and appropriate. A poem, "Gettysburg," by Isaac R. Penneycker, followed. The oration on "The First Day," by Capt. Joseph G. Rosecrans, was a clear and concise description of that battle, in which he said that the 12th regiment engaged and spoke in detail of the absence of the 1st division. He remarked that the "statue of Reynolds marks the place on which he fell, but our duty will not be done until monuments of Meade and Hancock are erected."

Most of the monuments, Governor Beaver traced the service of the white troops here and enlarged the work of the Commission, saying they had discharged their duty in a manner alike creditable to themselves and the Commonwealth. He referred to the constitutional difficulties which made necessary his visit to the battlefield, and the Reserves to meet their appropriations. The memorial statue, and promised so far as he was able officially or personally to co-operate with the regiments in carrying out their wishes. He alluded to the Vermont, New Jersey, and New York brigade monument and urged the Pennsylvania Reserve to go to perpetuate their part in the battle in a building which shall be distinctive and appropriate. A poem, "Gettysburg," by Isaac R. Penneycker, followed. The oration on "The First Day," by Capt. Joseph G. Rosecrans, was a clear and concise description of that battle, in which he said that the 12th regiment engaged and spoke in detail of the absence of the 1st division. He remarked that the "statue of Reynolds marks the place on which he fell, but our duty will not be done until monuments of Meade and Hancock are erected."

THE Carle Manufacturing Company has been given the contract for introducing steam heat into the Court House, the price being $1,475. This includes a system of ventilation.

Academy Items.
Rev. Geo. Zacharias, who has spent about four and half years in traveling anti-slavery in the states of Germany, Italy and France, and who is now the guest of Rev. B. Bauman, held the pulpit of the Reformed church last evening.

The Reformed Sunday School of this place will picnic in the grove of Mr. Henry Lutz, 3d, three-fourths of a mile south-west of this place. The Lutheran Sunday School has been invited along; also the Band of this place, which will appear in their re-modeled uniform.

The serene by the Band on Saturday evening was enjoyed by all. We hope for a repetition.

Mr. Henry Kretz and wife, and Mrs. Enoch of Conestoga, Fayette county, Pa. Geo. Snyder, of Somerset county, are guests of Mr. M. Snyder, Mr. Shuman Taylor and Miss Jessie Taylor, Mr. Geo. Rosch, Mr. Harry Spangler and Rev. M. H. Sauer were among the visitors to this place last week.

Miss Emma F. Buckley and wife left this week for Allentown, Pa.

Miss Anna Miller left on Thursday for the Ladies' Seminary at Lancaster, Md., where she will study during the coming school year.

Miss Lottie Lowry, Asst. P. M. of this place, left on Saturday for Harrisburg, where she will spend some time.

From Bendersville.
Mr. John Fitzgerald, one of our devoted disciples of Alvin Walton, the English philosopher, has been caught since Spring 178 fish, some large ones, 2 recently weighing 3 pounds.

A LETTER from Washington informs us that Secretary Noble was very much opposed to allowing Thayer the privilege of resigning and insisted upon his unconditional dismissal.

THE Carle Manufacturing Company has been given the contract for introducing steam heat into the Court House, the price being $1,475. This includes a system of ventilation.

Academy Items.
Rev. Geo. Zacharias, who has spent about four and half years in traveling anti-slavery in the states of Germany, Italy and France, and who is now the guest of Rev. B. Bauman, held the pulpit of the Reformed church last evening.

The Reformed Sunday School of this place will picnic in the grove of Mr. Henry Lutz, 3d, three-fourths of a mile south-west of this place. The Lutheran Sunday School has been invited along; also the Band of this place, which will appear in their re-modeled uniform.

The serene by the Band on Saturday evening was enjoyed by all. We hope for a repetition.

Mr. Henry Kretz and wife, and Mrs. Enoch of Conestoga, Fayette county, Pa. Geo. Snyder, of Somerset county, are guests of Mr. M. Snyder, Mr. Shuman Taylor and Miss Jessie Taylor, Mr. Geo. Rosch, Mr. Harry Spangler and Rev. M. H. Sauer were among the visitors to this place last week.

Miss Emma F. Buckley and wife left this week for Allentown, Pa.

Miss Anna Miller left on Thursday for the Ladies' Seminary at Lancaster, Md., where she will study during the coming school year.

Miss Lottie Lowry, Asst. P. M. of this place, left on Saturday for Harrisburg, where she will spend some time.

From Bendersville.
Mr. John Fitzgerald, one of our devoted disciples of Alvin Walton, the English philosopher, has been caught since Spring 178 fish, some large ones, 2 recently weighing 3 pounds.

A LETTER from Washington informs us that Secretary Noble was very much opposed to allowing Thayer the privilege of resigning and insisted upon his unconditional dismissal.

THE Carle Manufacturing Company has been given the contract for introducing steam heat into the Court House, the price being $1,475. This includes a system of ventilation.

Academy Items.
Rev. Geo. Zacharias, who has spent about four and half years in traveling anti-slavery in the states of Germany, Italy and France, and who is now the guest of Rev. B. Bauman, held the pulpit of the Reformed church last evening.

The Reformed Sunday School of this place will picnic in the grove of Mr. Henry Lutz, 3d, three-fourths of a mile south-west of this place. The Lutheran Sunday School has been invited along; also the Band of this place, which will appear in their re-modeled uniform.

The serene by the Band on Saturday evening was enjoyed by all. We hope for a repetition.

Mr. Henry Kretz and wife, and Mrs. Enoch of Conestoga, Fayette county, Pa. Geo. Snyder, of Somerset county, are guests of Mr. M. Snyder, Mr. Shuman Taylor and Miss Jessie Taylor, Mr. Geo. Rosch, Mr. Harry Spangler and Rev. M. H. Sauer were among the visitors to this place last week.

Miss Emma F. Buckley and wife left this week for Allentown, Pa.

Miss Anna Miller left on Thursday for the Ladies' Seminary at Lancaster, Md., where she will study during the coming school year.

Miss Lottie Lowry, Asst. P. M. of this place, left on Saturday for Harrisburg, where she will spend some time.

From Bendersville.
Mr. John Fitzgerald, one of our devoted disciples of Alvin Walton, the English philosopher, has been caught since Spring 178 fish, some large ones, 2 recently weighing 3 pounds.

A LETTER from Washington informs us that Secretary Noble was very much opposed to allowing Thayer the privilege of resigning and insisted upon his unconditional dismissal.

THE Carle Manufacturing Company has been given the contract for introducing steam heat into the Court House, the price being $1,475. This includes a system of ventilation.

Academy Items.
Rev. Geo. Zacharias, who has spent about four and half years in traveling anti-slavery in the states of Germany, Italy and France, and who is now the guest of Rev. B. Bauman, held the pulpit of the Reformed church last evening.

The Reformed Sunday School of this place will picnic in the grove of Mr. Henry Lutz, 3d, three-fourths of a mile south-west of this place. The Lutheran Sunday School has been invited along; also the Band of this place, which will appear in their re-modeled uniform.

The serene by the Band on Saturday evening was enjoyed by all. We hope for a repetition.

Mr. Henry Kretz and wife, and Mrs. Enoch of Conestoga, Fayette county, Pa. Geo. Snyder, of Somerset county, are guests of Mr. M. Snyder, Mr. Shuman Taylor and Miss Jessie Taylor, Mr. Geo. Rosch, Mr. Harry Spangler and Rev. M. H. Sauer were among the visitors to this place last week.

Miss Emma F. Buckley and wife left this week for Allentown, Pa.

Miss Anna Miller left on Thursday for the Ladies' Seminary at Lancaster, Md., where she will study during the coming school year.

Miss Lottie Lowry, Asst. P. M. of this place, left on Saturday for Harrisburg, where she will spend some time.

From Bendersville.
Mr. John Fitzgerald, one of our devoted disciples of Alvin Walton, the English philosopher, has been caught since Spring 178 fish, some large ones, 2 recently weighing 3 pounds.

A LETTER from Washington informs us that Secretary Noble was very much opposed to allowing Thayer the privilege of resigning and insisted upon his unconditional dismissal.

THE Carle Manufacturing Company has been given the contract for introducing steam heat into the Court House, the price being $1,475. This includes a system of ventilation.

Academy Items.
Rev. Geo. Zacharias, who has spent about four and half years in traveling anti-slavery in the states of Germany, Italy and France, and who is now the guest of Rev. B. Bauman, held the pulpit of the Reformed church last evening.

The Reformed Sunday School of this place will picnic in the grove of Mr. Henry Lutz, 3d, three-fourths of a mile south-west of this place. The Lutheran Sunday School has been invited along; also the Band of this place, which will appear in their re-modeled uniform.

The serene by the Band on Saturday evening was enjoyed by all. We hope for a repetition.

Mr. Henry Kretz and wife, and Mrs. Enoch of Conestoga, Fayette county, Pa. Geo. Snyder, of Somerset county, are guests of Mr. M. Snyder, Mr. Shuman Taylor and Miss Jessie Taylor, Mr. Geo. Rosch, Mr. Harry Spangler and Rev. M. H. Sauer were among the visitors to this place last week.

Miss Emma F. Buckley and wife left this week for Allentown, Pa.

Miss Anna Miller left on Thursday for the Ladies' Seminary at Lancaster, Md., where she will study during the coming school year.

Miss Lottie Lowry, Asst. P. M. of this place, left on Saturday for Harrisburg, where she will spend some time.

From Bendersville.
Mr. John Fitzgerald, one of our devoted disciples of Alvin Walton, the English philosopher, has been caught since Spring 178 fish, some large ones, 2 recently weighing 3 pounds.

A LETTER from Washington informs us that Secretary Noble was very much opposed to allowing Thayer the privilege of resigning and insisted upon his unconditional dismissal.

THE Carle Manufacturing Company has been given the contract for introducing steam heat into the Court House, the price being $1,475. This includes a system of ventilation.

Academy Items.
Rev. Geo. Zacharias, who has spent about four and half years in traveling anti-slavery in the states of Germany, Italy and France, and who is now the guest of Rev. B. Bauman, held the pulpit of the Reformed church last evening.

The Reformed Sunday School of this place will picnic in the grove of Mr. Henry Lutz, 3d, three-fourths of a mile south-west of this place. The Lutheran Sunday School has been invited along; also the Band of this place, which will appear in their re-modeled uniform.

The serene by the Band on Saturday evening was enjoyed by all. We hope for a repetition.

Mr. Henry Kretz and wife, and Mrs. Enoch of Conestoga, Fayette county, Pa. Geo. Snyder, of Somerset county, are guests of Mr. M. Snyder, Mr. Shuman Taylor and Miss Jessie Taylor, Mr. Geo. Rosch, Mr. Harry Spangler and Rev. M. H. Sauer were among the visitors to this place last week.

Miss Emma F. Buckley and wife left this week for Allentown, Pa.

Miss Anna Miller left on Thursday for the Ladies' Seminary at Lancaster, Md., where she will study during the coming school year.

Miss Lottie Lowry, Asst. P. M. of this place, left on Saturday for Harrisburg, where she will spend some time.

From Bendersville.
Mr. John Fitzgerald, one of our devoted disciples of Alvin Walton, the English philosopher, has been caught since Spring 178 fish, some large ones, 2 recently weighing 3 pounds.

A LETTER from Washington informs us that Secretary Noble was very much opposed to allowing Thayer the privilege of resigning and insisted upon his unconditional dismissal.

Advertisement for C. L. R. CAMP, featuring a large illustration of a man in a military uniform. The text includes a notice about a public sale of land, a notice about a public sale of a farm, and a notice about a public sale of a house. The advertisement also includes a notice about a public sale of a house and a notice about a public sale of a house.

